BARS WOMEN AS JURORS.

Maryland Court Finds Law Does Not Authorize Their Service.

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE STAR. FREDERICK, Md., January 15.—Women of Frederick city and county who thought the nineteenth amendment carried with it all privileges allotted to men, and who have been anxious to take their turn at jury service, this week to their consternation saw their hopes blasted. Judge Glenn H. Worthington, in reply to queries as to why no women had been included in recent juries, said that under the state law women are not eligible. The Maryland law, explained Judge Worthington, limits jury service to men, and as long as that law is in force women will not be considered. This law can be amended only by the Maryland assembly, and as that body does not meet until 1922, women will be forced to await the pleasure of the legislature.
